

Does Your Teen Have Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD)?

If so, you may be interested in learning about a clinical research study. Northwest Behavioral Research Center is evaluating an investigational medication using a patch for the treatment of Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder.

To be eligible, the participant must:

- Be 13 through 17 years of age (inclusive)
- Be able to come to the doctor's office for at least 9 study visits
- Have a parent/legal guardian who is willing and able to comply with study procedures and restrictions

Qualified study participants will receive study-related ADHD/medical evaluations and investigational medications at no charge. You will be compensated for time and travel.

If you are interested in having your teen participate, please contact Dr. Michael Banov at 678-992-0109.
